DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-14, drawn to a method for manufacturing a power capacitor.

Group II, claim(s) 15-27, drawn to equipment for manufacturing a power capacitor.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Katchman (3,424,957) discloses a capacitor with wound dielectric films 7,8 and metallized/electrode coatings/films 9,10. Katchman discloses that the terminals 11,12 are exposed at opposite ends of the roll by a metal connection 13 produced by soldering (column 2 lines 42-65 and figure 2). Katchman does not disclose a preheated solder tip in a solder pot and coating the solder tip with solder. However, Colby (1,425,633) does disclose a solder pot 15 with solder 22 and a solder tip/iron 21 where the tip is dipped in heated solder (figure 1 and page 1 lines 56-85). It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to use a solder pot for heating the solder and coating the solder tip for solder because it is a well known process for applying solder to the surface of a component to be soldered to another component. Therefore, lack of unity is proper.

3. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

If Group II (equipment) is elected, Applicant is requested to pick one from species A and one from species B:

SPECIES A:

Species Ai: the shaft and the insulating shaft are arranged so that a guide pin prevents relative axial movement

Species Aii: the shaft and the insulating shaft are arranged so that a guide pin, running in an axial slit, makes possible a relative axial movement.

SPECIES B:

Species Bi: figure 5a (smooth end surface)

Species Bii: figure 5b (circular recesses)

Species Biii: figure 5c (grid-like pattern)

Species Bv: figure 5e (rectangular cross section)

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Art Unit: 1793

4. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species Ai: claim 17

Species Aii: claim 18

Species Bi: claim 22

Species Bii: claim 23

Species Biii: claim 24

Species Biv: claim 25

Species Bv: claim 26

The following claim(s) are generic: claims 15 and 16 and 21.

5. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the reasons as stated above with prior art Katchman (3,424,957) and Colby (1,425,633).
